

Privacy Policy Regarding the Collection and Use of Personal Data

The Psychoanalytic Center of the Carolinas (PCC) places a high priority on protecting the privacy of our community members, defined here as our members, students, faculty, program participants, donors, and website visitors. This privacy policy was created to demonstrate our firm commitment to the privacy of our community members. This policy explains what types of information are collected and how this information is used.

What Personally Identifiable Information is Collected

The PCC will not obtain personally identifying information about visitors to our website unless you choose to provide such information to us. PCC members and individuals who sign up for electronic communications, events, videos, and training programs voluntarily provide us with contact information (such as name, phone, and e-mail address). Except as might be required by law, we do not share any information we receive with any outside parties.

You may opt out of PCC communications at any time via the link on emails you receive from the organization or by contacting the PCC staff.

How Your Information May Be Used

The PCC uses personal information to:

- Send e-mail newsletters, program announcements, course updates, surveys, and other relevant communications from the organization
- Process applications for membership, scholarships, fellowships, or admissions
- Answer requests and inquiries about programs, membership, or referrals
- Populate the member directory for the community and, for professional members, the online therapist search featured on the website

Email Privacy

The Psychoanalytic Center of the Carolinas does not provide, sell or rent email addresses or other personal information to anyone outside the organization.

External Links

Occasionally, the PCC will share programs or announcements from affiliated organizations or include links to external websites that may be of interest to our members. These links do not fall under the www.CarolinaPsychoanalytic.org domain; therefore, the Psychoanalytic Center of the Carolinas is not responsible for the privacy practices or the content of external websites. Your use of any linked website is solely at your own risk.

Modifications

We may amend this privacy policy from time to time; please review it periodically. We maintain the option to modify this privacy policy at any time by electronic notice posted on our website. Your continued use of our website after the date that such notices are posted will be deemed to be your agreement to the changed terms.
